33rd Annual ORW Rankings

In 1970, the Ohio Racewalker ranked the world's best walkers at 20 and 50 Km based on their season-long efforts. We have continued those rankings since, so this marks our 33rd year in the rankings game. 1970 was the same year that Track & Field News added the walks to their annual rankings of track and field athletes. Bob Bowman took on the assignment of compiling the rankings and asked Colin Young, an Englishman steeped in the lore of the sport, and me to assist him. (Ireland's Pierce O'Callaghan has taken Colin's place beginning this year.) Since I went through the exercise, I decided to publish what I had sent to Bob in my own newsletter, and, in the process, scooped T&F News. But, of course, there was not full agreement between my rankings and the consensus of Bob, Colin, and me. That remains true today. But, now T&F News beats me onto the street with the rankings.

In 1972, I added U.S. rankings and in 1979 women's rankings, as that side of the sport finally began to have significant competition. The first women's rankings were at 5 and 10 Km, the primary competitive distances for many years, and after 1985, just at 10. In 1999, the women's rankings shifted to the 20 Km, as that became the distance for international competition.

As we first said way back in 1971, the ORW rankings are based on the consensus opinion of your editor and no one else. All gripes are graciously accepted, but they won't change a thing.

8. Yevgeniy Misulya, Belarus
   1:20:56 (6) Euro. Champ. 8/6
   1:23:07 (5) World Cup 10/12
Another close call for first. Ivanova and Alfridi traded wins in the two major championships, but Ivanova had a much more decisive win and by far the fastest time. Nikolayeva beat Fedoskina in the Russian Championship and Fedoskina dropped out of the European Championship, so Nikolayeva gets the nod over her World Cup conqueror. The rest of the positions are determined by World Cup finish, except for O'Sullivan, who had a very impressive season until her World Cup demise.

2002 World 50 Km Rankings—Men

1. Robert Korzeniowski, Poland
   3:36:39 (1) Euro. Champ. 8/8
   3:40:08 (2) World Cup 10/13

2. Aleksy Voyevodin, Russia
   3:37:42 (1) Russian Champ. 5/26
   3:39:16 (2) World Cup 10/13

3. German Skurygin, Russia
   3:40:59 (3) World Cup 10/13
   3:42:08 (4) Euro. Champ. 8/8

4. Tomasz Lipiec, Poland
   3:41:22 (2) World Cup 10/13
   3:41:42 (1) Russian Champ. 5/26

5. Nikolay Matyukhin, Russia
   3:42:46 (3) Russian Champ. 5/26
   3:45:37 (3) World Cup 10/13

And here I have to disagree with myself. As noted, Bob Bowman is responsible for the racewalk rankings in Track & Field News' annual rankings, with assistance from two others, including me. Those rankings show Voyevodin number one and our decision on that ranking was unanimous. Based on T&FN’s three criteria of honors won, won-lost record, and sequence of marks, I could not vote otherwise. But here, in my own publication, I don’t have any criteria, just my own subjective decision on who was the best for the year. And I have no doubt that Robert Korzeniowski was the best 50 Km walker in the world in 2002. Just one race, but he finished that more than half-a-mile ahead of Voyevodin. Korzeniowski clearly number one, Voyevodin clearly ahead of anyone else. (Note that there have always been differences in the ORW and T&FN rankings, because obviously, three people aren’t going to agree right down the line, even with set criteria, and I have always disagreed to some extent with the decisions I make based on those criteria. And if there weren’t differences, I suppose I would be accused of simply pasting the rankings in. had they been the same, because their Annual Rankings issue came out after the first of the year, whereas mine have always been published in the December issue. I won’t be accused enough, however, to claim that they switched to earlier publication of the rankings just because the was scooping them on the walk rankings.) Voyevodin had a remarkable season with its consistency, three races in nearly identical times, all under 3:41. Skurygin improved with each race and his second in the World Cup earns him the third slot. From there, the only changes from the World Cup finish are Garcia in seventh and Nymark in ninth. The veteran Garcia was impressive in the European Championship race and had another good race to overcome his two DQs. Nymark's fifth in the European Championship and sub 3:50 race earn him the ninth slot, though he did not contest the World Cup.

I had to debate about ranking Jim Heys. He has dual US and Canadian citizenship, but has not yet competed for either country. However, he has said he will compete for Canada when the opportunity arises. (He was injured at the time of the Canadian World Cup Trials, or that would probably have been this year.) But, until he has competed for Canada, as a US citizen, he deserves consideration in these rankings. I first decided I would include him only in the list of top times below, but decided it didn't make a lot of sense to include him there and not in the rankings, where I thought his single performance deserved ranking. So, there he is.

Clausen regained his National title, but Dunn's superb World Cup race was enough to end Curt's five-year reign at the top of the U.S. rankings.

First 2003 National The U.S. Olympic Training Center will host the first National title race of the New Year on January 25. The National 30 km will be contested on the Center’s 400-meter track, with an accompanying 20 km serving as the trial race for the Pan Am Cup men’s and women’s teams. Standards for entry in the 20 km races are 1:50 for men and 2:00 for women. Good question. Bob Mimm writes: "I read with interest the way Gary Westonfield analyzed the mechanics of racewalking. I also read the way Bob Bowman found fault with so much of it... . Speed is defined by a schedule—it’s 50 hours (non-stop) if you want to try the full 150 miles. To keep the family atmosphere of these walks, entries are limited to 12." Further World Cup Observations. Tom Knatt visited Turin for the World Cup races and offers these comments: 1. There were a lot of DQ’s, especially in the 50 (17 total). Even the top competitors have trouble at that distance with the knee ‘straightened’ on contact. The winner got one red card early—before 10 km. Part of the problem could have been the hard, uneven surface. 2. The winner and second place finisher in the 50 were very muscular and very smooth in their style. Other Americans, not as smooth. I wonder if the American team does enough weight lifting? I believe you need strength as well as aerobic conditioning for this sport, especially at 50 km. 3. Many of the Americans looked stiff. The appeared to need more flexibility work. I wonder if the team coaches work with them during the week before the race, to get maximum flexibility for race day. (Ed. It is my understanding that flexibility training is very much a part of the regimen for these athletes, but they can probably comment on this better than I.)...

Hall of Fame Awards. Cheryl Rellinger offers this first hand account of Larry Young’s induction into the Track and Field Hall of Fame on December 2. “Last night was the Jesse Owens Awards Dinner and Xerox Hall of Fame Induction Ceremony, which included induction for Larry Young, Earl Bell, Steve Scott, and Gwen Torrance. While the latter three recounted wonderful stories throughout most of their acceptance speeches (Gwen was the only one to receive a marriage proposal onstage, however...), Larry spent most of his time praising the sport of racewalking itself. He said afterward that with the discussion of the possibility of losing racewalking in the Olympics...

FROM HEEL TO TOE

2003 Pan Am Cup

Mexico and the U.S. have agreed to co-host the 2003 edition of the Pan-Am Racewalking Cup in March. The men will contest the 50 km in Tijuana on March 9. The 20 km for both men and women will be a week later in Chula Vista, Calif., across the border from Tijuana. The 50 km will be contested as the first race in the new IAAF Racewalking Challenge (see the November ORW for sites and dates in this year-long series). The Tijuana Challenge event also includes a 20 km for men and women on March 8 and some athletes might contest both that race and the Pan Am Cup 20. The U.S. teams will be selected based on 2002 performance lists, plus consideration of times in a 20 km race in Chula Vista on Jan. 25 (see below), which offers a chance to improve one’s position on those lists. The Pan Am Cup was first contested in 1984 in Cucaramanga, Colombia and has been held every two years since, through 2000. The competition was switched to the odd years in 2001 to avoid conflict with other events on the IAAF schedule.
passionate about the sport as he is, and thus his speech about racewalking would be a worthy way to pay his respects to them as well." A couple of weeks earlier Larry had been part of a teleconference with Craig Masback, USATF CEO, Scott and Bell. In answer to a question, "Please discuss the state of your sport and event group in 2002?" Larry replied: "Racewalking has always been a controversial sport, and it's changed quite a bit since I've been involved. It's talk now about possibly removing it from the Olympic Games and replacing it with other sports, like golf. I think racers, when you look at the statistics, those guys are some of the most fit athletes in the Games. In terms of the legality, there is more we can do in the sport in terms of using video to see if these guys have their feet off the ground. We need to gain legitimacy and take a hard look at where we are." When asked directly, "Larry, can you compare the 50 km racewalk with the marathon as long-distance events?", he replied: "The two sports are very similar in terms of training and conditioning. After '72, they did one of these tests on us. Jim Ryan, Frank Shorter, myself and some others were involved. They measured our body's ability to take up oxygen and expel carbon dioxide. Racewalkers, marathoners, and across country athletes were all there together. I always say that racewalking takes the strength and agility of a gymnast, the technique of a ballet dancer, and the endurance of a marathon runner."

College Racewalking Grand Prix

From Mike DeWitt
Coach, U. of Wisconsin-Parkside

Over the past several years there has been a lot of talk about developing more walkers, especially at the high school and college level. There have been a lot of ideas and words. Are you ready for a full attempt that most anyone in the racewalking community can help with in some simple ways?

Maine High School Coaches and NAIA Coaches have it figured out. They support all track and field events, even if they are not going to be directly involved in the development of walkers. The vote in Maine was similar to the last NAIA Vote at the 2001 Indoor Meet. We have about a 5 or 6 to 1 ratio of support for the event from the people that count. The big majority of coaches are for racewalking. Several of the coaches in the NCAA II are now working to build that same type of support. We'll work on things at our level, you can help a lot at your level. numbers is what we need and numbers from a lot of different colleges and areas around the country.

Racewalkers throughout the U.S. are vital in getting new athletes interested in at least trying the event. We need to get everyone involved in talking to your local college track coaches and athletes as well as encouraging Junior Olympic athletes to walk in college. Some of you have had success in doing so. The stumbling blocks have been that you could talk, teach, and show people by trying what racewalking is, but the college kids haven't had more than 1 or 2 races to attend, little or no guidance to get them walking within their training routine, nor did they have any type of "Championship" motivation to aim at.

To help remedy that, the United States Track Coaches Association (USTCA) is endorsing and giving the Collegiate Race Walking Grand Prix its sponsorship. Racewalking International (RWI) is sponsoring the awards and using its web site as a posting board of information, schedules, and results. The USTCA is the largest organized group of college track coaches. Their web site, periodicals, and releases regularly reach over 4,000 coaches.

Here is where you can be of major help. It is early Indoor Track season for all of the collegiate programs in the USA. Those of you that are near a college campus with a track program can once again, or for the first time, take a little time to promote racewalking. Check out the team's web site for their event schedule. Ask the coach to put in an "open" or collegiate walk at the end of the meet. Let them know about the USTCA Grand Prix. Let them know you will take care of judging, lap counting, and results. Keep the distance to a mile or even 1.5 km just to get some athletes out to try the event. The difference from the past is that you will have information posted for those coaches and athletes to relate to the growing event. There will be some coaching information for those that would like to run and racewalk and how that could be done. It will include results and schedules from around the US, and it will also explain how they can earn honors and recognition. You don't have to outline all of this stuff, just talk to the athletes, they will search out the info and there are coaches looking for ideas as well. The information on the web site will give ideas about how UWP has taken runners and helped them to be good runner/racers over the past 30 years. This information will be for any college athlete, not just a member of a team. That is why this Grand Prix is important for every college athlete.
Another way that you can help is to publicize any races that are coming up in your area. For example, the series of races in Virginia will all be included in the Grand Prix, so even if one college athlete walks, we will be adding to the total number of walkers listed at the season end wrapup. Also, if the event is a 3k, encourage a new walker to cover 1k or 1600m if they are not sure they can walk a 3k the first time out.

The "number goal" for the 2003 Track Season is to have at least 50 colleges represented on the Grand Prix Standings with at least one race. That would be more than double the 20 or so colleges in the USA that have someone walking right now. Having 50 colleges represented will be a big start to show coaches, athletic directors, and athletes that the racewalk is growing in numbers and not just something a few places do.

To be represented on the Grand Prix an athlete only needs to compete in one race. To have an opportunity for Post Season Awards, a walker must finish four events, including one Championship Event. That championship could be any USAATF National or Regional Meet, the NAIA, any Conference Meet, or any event designated as a championship, such as the UWP Spring Race Walks.

The scheme for these races will involve using age grading, so that competitors at the mile/3k/5k distance will still have a comparison for those that are competing at 10k/20k or even 50k.

Walkers who are not part of a college track program will only need a signature from any administrator at their university to compete. By doing this, we can get results of the Grand Prix to that Administrator to make them aware of how that student from their university fared and improve the chance that such athletes might be supported more in the future.

LOOKING BACK

40 Years Ago (From the Dec. 1962 Race Walker published by Chris McCarthy) - Ron Laird was given the Mike Ribin trophy as the Outstanding US Racewalker for 1962. Second in the national voting was Ron Zinn. Laird also turned in a 6:49.3 mile in Chicago, his home at that time, and recorded the fast time in an icy 10 Mile Handicap race with a 1:19:27, followed by McCarthy's 1:21:03 and Zinn's 1:21:08. Martin Rudow won a Portland, Oregon 10 Km in 52:11. Fastest mile of the early season was 6:45.3 by Alan Blakeslee in New York. Ron Kulik won a rare 880 yard walk in the Newark, N.J. Armory in 3:19, with Elliott Denman and Terry Anderson 8 seconds back.
